

WEALTH IDUWE

A frontend developer with less than a year experience. My tech journey started in 2020 after a well-thought career shift from engineering.

My passion and knowledge had significantly grown owing to the robust support from tech professionals and good learning resources available for tech newbies on several online platforms.

I'm goal driven, an active listener with great attention for details.

Over the last six months, I have also undertaken several courses personal projects using a version control system (github) for my upskill, which had significantly improved my skill sets in HTML,CSS,JavaScript, some libraries and frameworks such as Bootstrap & jquery.

My most recent project is an E-commerce website integrated with paystack API for payment.

I'm presently on the Zuri training after completing a microdegree course in frontend development with Ustacky.
